Activity The Marketplace

Imagine Montréal in the early days, when the public market brought the whole town together. It was a bustling atmosphere, as all the shops and stores laid out their wares in open-air stalls. Each team of children will play the role of a group involved in trade back in those days: farmers, merchants, craftspeople and soldiers. The teams will be given four challenges — games that will help them learn something about the saga of New France. To round out the activity, the teams will trade their goods in.

Duration: 90 minutes
Capacity: 80 children
$8.50 per child

Who wouldn't want to take part in a tale of adventure, filled with surprises, aboard an 18th-century-style ship, imagining oneself in the heart of New France? Here's a golden opportunity for young people to learn about and measure up to the rough and ready sailors who scoured the St. Lawrence River alongside Montréal privateer Pierre Le Moyne d'Iberville. Young candidates get to climb aboard the ship, learn the basics of navigation, explore life on board, test their skills, and prepare to defend their territory. Ready for the challenge?
